To our clients, colleagues, and professional friends:

Vector Scientific, Inc. (VSI) is blessed with great employees to whom our success is directly credited. Our company's primary concern, especially during these uncertain times, is the safety and well-being of our employees and their families.

Thankfully we are all well and able to continue to serve our clients. While travel and in-person meetings are postponed until normalcy returns, we continue to work and be available, accessible, and accountable. You can continue to reach us at the main phone number below or by email.

I pray that you and yours stay healthy and productive during these unique times.

Best,
